Label Not Found	E Kaesler 2006 Old Vine Shiraz (Barossa Valley) $60 95 Country: South Eastern Australia, Australia This wine's concentrated dark fruit shows in the color—a vibrant dark garnet—and in the aromas of blueberry, vanilla and dried spices. The 16% alcohol is well concealed, manifesting only as wonderfully full, creamy density on the palate, magnifying the intense cola, earth and spice complexity. A pronounced peppery, black licorice note adds extra length to the finely textured finish. Drink now–2020. - J.C. (6/1/2009) - 95
Label Not Found	Kaesler 2005 Old Bastard Shiraz (Barossa Valley) $140 95 Country: South Eastern Australia, Australia From vines planted in 1893, this wine combines spicy complexity with size and ultraconcentrated fruit. It tips the scales at 16% alcohol, but wears it well, hiding it under hints of licorice and subtle wood spice and layers of blackberry and blueberry fruit. Yes, it's big, but it's not inelegant, finishing lush, long and spicy. Terrific stuff that should drink well from 2010–2020. - J.C. (11/1/2007) - 95
Label Not Found	Kaesler 2006 Old Bastard Shiraz (Barossa Valley) $190 94 Country: South Eastern Australia, Australia From vines planted more than a century ago, this richly concentrated, voluptuous wine blossoms with time in the glass, revealing aromas of brandied black cherries and dark chocolate. The tannins are creamy smooth, the length on the palate prodigious. But at 15.5% alcohol, this wine's warmth is noticeable; opt for drinking it over the next 10 years. - J.C. (2/1/2010) - 94
Label Not Found	Kaesler 2006 The Bogan Shiraz (Barossa Valley) $60 94 Country: South Eastern Australia, Australia Take superripe Barossa Shiraz from old vines, put it into 80% new American oak and the result is this hedonistic mouthful of wine. It's full-bodied and creamy in texture; blueberry fruit combines with cola, earth and spice nuances. Long and velvety on the finish, where it picks up hints of cocoa. - J.C. (6/1/2009) - 94
